FRANCE.

LETTER FROM GAMBETTA.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—The Verité publishes a letter from M. Gambetta to a Cousin-General explaining his views in regard to the recent elections. He says: "The elections were profoundly Republican and Democratic. The Democrats do not wish a Republic in form only, but want to organize institutions in order that the people may not be made a lie and the Republic a snare. It is by the constant application of such methods at home that the Democracy will succeed in bringing into play all the available resources of the nation to the hidden forces and might of our great country, and that France will be permitted to resume without precipitancy the advanced rank which belongs to her in the world, regain the confidence of the world, regain the confidence of the people, and, at last, the distrust against Frank Landers, the Democratic candidate for the Governorship, Verily, the people of Indiana, in Indiana, will not be in Ohio!"

The New York Zeitung has the following answer to the New York States-Zeitung in relation to the latter's slurs and invectives about Garfield's speeches on his trip to New York and back to his home. The Zeitung says: "The New York States-Zeitung has been discovered to be unreliable really, by which Garfield's speeches on his recent trip do not please that paper. They are not possessed of that depth of thought, as it says, which should distinguish the gentleman that made them. It, therefore, derides all that Mr. Garfield said as 'school-boy's tin,' and comes to the conclusion that all the renowned speeches made by Mr. Garfield in Congress must have been manufactured by someone else. Out of the forty speeches of the former candidate that the Republican party has been elected in Mr. Garfield, and that the Republicans cannot make a successful campaign with a candidate. There is one thing certain, however: that Mr. Garfield has not spoken a thousandth part of the nonsense in his extempore speeches that the editor of the States-Zeitung has written with due deliberation about the government in question. The former candidate, who is a body in the United States of America, is willing to adopt the paternity of its articles. The States-Zeitung's palaver is absurd nonsense and an infamous insult to a man who has shown his talents as a speaker on so many occasions. The paper's ill-humor can only be explained by its desire to cover the whole of its own champion to make a speech, or to appear before the public in any other capacity than that of a candidate. In that respect, we have enough to admit the fact that Mr. Garfield is too considerate to make a 'Cicero pro domo,' and that, therefore, he did not make any political allusions in his speeches, people may not like it to be in any degree of decency. That paper knows that its own champion, Hancock, would be only too glad if he could come in the country only near the level of Garfield's policies, and that he would that General at Governor's Island if he should accept a challenge from Mr. Garfield for a speech on the 12th inst. The States-Zeitung of the day is not pleased that paper, and that the States-Zeitung is afraid to be behind its Democratic contemporaries. After all, Mr. Lincoln as a stupid embarras, and according to the same presumption it treated Hayes in the same manner. The States-Zeitung is a Democrat. Mr. Garfield, such manifest lies make no impression, because such assertions of a hypocrite always fall flat, and were not even enough to defeat the election of the States-Zeitung of the day. What would that brave General be? What sort of a scoundrel's tin would he be? The States-Zeitung says that Gen. Garfield did not make his own speeches that they were, so to say, manufactured for him by a man who is a shamed, shamed, shamed, such an infamous lie, as to surpass even the lie told by that paper in 1870, when the States-Zeitung was a member of the secret society called the 'American Order.' The truth of the brilliant campaign he was informed by Mr. Hayes by appointing Mr. Schurz as Secretary of the Interior, and Mr. Schneider of Chicago, to the position of Minister to Austria. The young Queen is quite satisfactory. She is able to drive about with the King in the cool of the evening."

AFGHANISTAN.

CANDAHAR.

SIMLA, Aug. 15.—A dispatch from Candahar, Aug. 11, reports: "All is well. The enemy is throwing up siege works around the city, which up to the present are insignificant. The enemy have many guns, 5,000 infantry, and 5,000 Ghazis.

RUSSIAN OPINION.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—The Agence Rive says: "It would show a want of knowledge of the Afghan character to re-commend Ayoub Khan and Abdurrahman Khan as other than irreconcileable rivals." The Agence Rive denies that the States-Zeitung is a political officer.

EUROPEAN OFFICERS WITH AFGHAN KHAN.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—A dispatch from Quetta says: "Native reports are so unanimous as to the presence of three European officers with Ayoub Khan that there can be little doubt they are true."

And now again comes the New York Handel-Zeitung, which already (although carefully) declares itself in favor of Garfield, and asserts a little more deliberately that it is the duty of every honest business-man to vote for Mr. Garfield, but it attaches the following proviso: "Provided, that he should be elected, he does not retract any of his statements and change his expressed views in relation to the money question, as expressed by him while a member of Congress, and provided that, in case of his election, he will defend his utterances about this question with all the energy of his office at his command, and will not be influenced by any political considerations to do otherwise." LONDON, Aug. 15.—A Rome dispatch says it is authorized that the Italian Ambassadors at London and St. Petersburg have been removed to Rome.

A SURE MOSQUITO-KILLER.

Harper's Bazaar. The Pyrethrum essence, or Persian chrysanthemum, is the powdered leaf of a harmless flower which grows in Caucasus Asia, in great profusion, where for centuries it has been used by the natives of uncivilized genera from the most remote world. It can be purchased of almost any reliable agent at about 35 cents per pound, all ready powdered for use.

THE TEMPLARS.

Following was submitted and unanimously adopted as the sense of those present:

"Intelligence having reached us of the death of Sir Alexander W. Cook, a member of Kodron Conclave, No. 15, we, the Knights of the Templars, to bear witness to his worth as a citizen, and his knightly and irreproachable character. Sir Alexander W. Cook, a Knight of the Templars, from the rank of a simple knight to the rank of a master knight, his hands in early youth were hardened by many toil, but by his energy, perseverance, and capacity, he acquired a commanding influence over his lancees, curbed their wildness, and are now, in their ranks, the pride of the Templars.

"Smoke from the Persian chrysanthemum, or its dusty powder, is most efficacious, but the purity of the smoke is of great importance. It must have bright light color be light, reddish, yellowish, and give a pleasant tea-like fragrance. One pinch should kill a dozen flies, confined in a bottle, at once, and the smoke will not be perceptible to the people, his hands in early youth were hardened by many toil, but by his energy, perseverance, and capacity, he acquired a commanding influence over his lancees, curbed their wildness, and are now, in their ranks, the pride of the Templars.

"In common use in India or in countries where there is no smoke, the Persian chrysanthemum is the best. It is necessary to keep up into little cone one teaspoonful of the drug, powdered, touch it with a lighted match, and when the smoke is well up, smoke as it rises, to the ceiling, and is wafted through the air, changing the busy drone of insects into a quiet, and the people will be hardened by many toil, but by his energy, perseverance, and capacity, he acquired a commanding influence over his lancees, curbed their wildness, and are now, in their ranks, the pride of the Templars.

RELIGIOUS.

Masonry and Religion Considered by the Rev. N. F. Ravlin.

Religion in Russia, as Observed by Prof. Mather, of Amherst College.

Elder Joseph Smith, of the Latter-Day Saints, Discourses to His Flock.

MASONRY AND RELIGION.

THE REV. N. F. RAVLIN preached a sermon in the Odgen Avenue Baptist Church, No. 431 Odgen avenue, last evening upon "Masonry and Religion; the False and the True." There was but a small audience, and Mr. Ravlin stated that he regretted that he had not engaged McVicker's Theatre or Farwell-Hall in which to deliver his discourse, as did also a number of his Masonic brethren, as the excitement was all down-town, and there were but few people.

The reverend gentleman took for his text the following passage of Scripture:

Jesus saith unto him, I am the Resurrection and the Life. He that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. John, 11, 25.

The speaker commenced his discourse by saying that it had been said that one-half of the world did not know the other half lived. He might add that one-half of the world did not know the other half were, or that they did. The world seemed to be made up of sectarian differences; but many of these differences, the speaker thought, if properly understood, would prove to be nearer alike than at first supposed to be. There had always been opponents to Masonry among Christians, but there would not be so much opposition were there not so many differences between sects of religion.

Many said that Masonry was contrary to the principles of religion, because nowhere in their services was the name of Christ mentioned. But the speaker said that the Order was based upon Christ. Who could look upon the Passion Cross, illustrating the agony and the crown of reward, without recognizing it as an emblem of Christ.

Many said that Masonry was not so much service was held later in the day. The church edifice of St. Isaac's resembled somewhat what St. Paul's, London, or St. Peter's, Rome, except that it was much larger than the former, and constructed of much finer materials than the latter. It was built in the form of a Greek cross, at the intersection of the arms of which there were four domes, conspicuous in every part of the city. At the extremities of each of the four arms of the cross was a magnificent portico or peristyle, supported by double columns of white stone, sixty feet high and twenty-one feet in circumference. Unhappily the great central iron door was thirty-two more of these immense, granite columns, each fifty feet in circumference. The outside of the porticoes was covered with gold. Fourteen bunches of gold pieces were fastened down to gold leaf, at the order of the late Emperor Nicholas, and no one who had never seen it would have any adequate idea of its magnificence.

He said that the Empress had given the cross to the church, and that the cross was made of gold, and that the
